EMPLOYMENT HISTORY

Security Officer, Google. San Jose, California

Jan. 2021 – Present

I work as a security officer at a Google office building in San Jose, California! It is a great job that requires you to not only meet and work with many different people, but to be collaborative and open to peoples issues and beliefs. Google offers many different types of benefits and opportunities to some of the officers, especially in tech based and business based careers. A normal shift consist of me walking around and positively talking and helping some of the google employees while also protecting and securing doors around the buildings and frequently patrolling the many parking lots.
